e-Travel Technologies Selects Cornerstone’s iBank Data Warehouse:

New Joint Offering Delivers Critical Travel Risk Information to Any Entity, iBank Travel Data Warehouse Solves Multi-source Data and Integration Issues

Bloomington, IN – September 19, 2006: e-Travel Technologies has chosen Cornerstone as a data distribution partner. With the increasing fractionalization of travel data as a key issue for corporations, travel management companies and technology companies, Cornerstone’s customers can use the iBank Travel Data Warehouse to automatically generate traveler risk management and advisory information through e-Travel Advisories.

e-Travel Advisories provide travel risk information to travel management companies throughout North America. This information includes travel alerts, government notices, health warnings, visa and passport requirements and is automatically emailed to the traveler.

“We are giving our clients a competitive advantage by offering an iBank interface through which they can initiate the necessary travel risk information to protect the itinerary and safety of their travelers,” said Don Churchhill, president and CEO of e-Travel Technologies Inc.

“iBank has been built to allow all travel-related entities such as booking engines, credit card data companies or travel insurance providers, for example, to upload or download any data because iBank is able to translate data into any format,” said Mat Orrego, president of Cornerstone.

“Data management has been Cornerstone’s focus for more than a decade and we’re pleased to work with industry leaders such as e-Travel Technologies and are happy to provide such an important link in the safety of the traveling public.”

This service from e-Travel Technologies helps travel management companies deliver value added services and ensures all parties have complete and accurate information.. The ability to automate this service through iBank helps the travel management company enhance quality and save time.
